

"California is broken. Our deficit is the largest in history, our southern border is more porous than ever, our public school system is nearly the worst in the country, and our anti-business climate has driven hundreds of businesses and thousands of jobs out of our state.

Like you, I'm frustrated with Sacramento: The lack of fiscal discipline, the seemingly endless expansion of state government, and the career politicians who have lost touch as they continue to pay more attention to the demands of special interests than to the critical needs of working families.

The simple solution – stop the failed policies and politics-as-usual.

We all believe that our government should be held to a higher standard, but it takes an army to win a war, and this is an uphill battle. Please join me in this fight, I would be honored to have your support."
